

Evaluation

Definition: Combines all components and learning in a contextualized format so as to demonstrate learning. Determines whether the objective of a lesson has been adequately achieved. Is both ongoing and cumulative.

Criteria:

- Focuses on whole/global lesson
- Is used as final evaluation of ability to communicate
- Involves every student
- Assesses whether students can actually do, or not do, that which was expected
- Is used to improve instruction
- Is multidimensional

Teacher's role: Monitor, facilitator, evaluator

Students' role: Interactive learner, active listener, active participant with independent production

Examples:

- Magazines, newspapers and articles
- Story presentations and minidramas
- Mock TV programs
- Videos
- Re-create real-life scenes related to context
- Compositions, essays, letters
- Projects (oral and written)
- Portfolios
- Speeches and oral presentations

